

Amendments to the Abstract:

Please replace the current Abstract with the following rewritten
Abstract:

An accessory for removing material for prostheses surgery including a plastic part and an insert made of a material harder than the bone material, the insert being embedded in the plastic part such that if the device is brought to a selected temperature, the accessory deteriorates itself.